Talmage as a Preacher.

A San Francisco paper says of T. De Witt Talmage. "We believe that no such Christian preacher has been heard since the days when George Whitfield and the two Wesleys preached the gospel on the shores of America. Sublime in his powers of pathetic and lurid description, terrible in earnestness, sparkling with graceful images and illustrative anecdote, the great multitude become as one man beneath his touch, and a silence, broken only by an occasional grasping for breath from the whole assembly, attends his utterances from the first sentence to the last." Mr. Talmage writes as well as he preaches, and we are glad to learn that he has taken the editorial chair of The Christian at Work, published at 102 Chambers street, New York. Their advertisement appears.

The Summit Hill Murder.

During the past week there have been dozens of reports in regard to the horrid murder of the young woman, Leinbach, at Summit Hill. At one time the murderer was caught, again forty stalwart policemen were said to be lurking in that highly picturesque little town keeping a strict watch upon the premises wherein the supposed murderer dwelt, a stud had been found and then a torn and blood-stained shirt which had fixed the crime upon a young man, from these and numerous other like reports, when we mounted the buggy behind the celebrated matched-team (Jersey) of our friend L. F. Kieppinger, on Wednesday morning last, for the purpose of visiting the scene of the murder, we were prepared to encounter scenes of a very startling nature—yes, even to find the people running about with ropes prepared to lynch the culprit on the spot. Imagine our surprise, when on reaching town, we found everything moving along calmly and quietly, and none spoke of the murder unless directly appealed to on the subject, and then the answer we received was—"The affair is becoming more and more wrapped in mystery, and it is doubtful if it is ever unravelled." We took dinner with friend Klotz, at the Eagle Hotel, and were assured by him that they had abundance of testimony to clear his son of any share in the murder. After a stop of about three hours, we started on our return trip, by way of Nesquehoning, and, as in going we found the excitement and rumors decrease as we neared the scene, so in returning, we found them to increase at each stopping place, until reaching Lehighton, we were startled by the announcement that Mr. Klotz's son had been arrested and lodged in jail, while we, who had eaten dinner with him, and only left his home two or three hours previous, knew nothing of the reported arrest.

Here is another specimen "brick" of the reports going the rounds in regard to the murder, copied from the Slatingson News of Wednesday last:

MURDER.—On Tuesday night of last week three Irishmen stopped at a house occupied by a family named Heimbach, at Summit Hill, Carbon county, and called to the door Miss Kate Leinbach, a daughter of about 17 years. They then seized her, took her too the woods near the village, outraged her person, and then murdered her. She was found the next morning with her skull crushed and brains scattered about. The murderers are known by the mother of the girl.

Such are some of the rumors going the rounds of the press and people, and so far as we could learn there is no truth in them. When the coroner is through with his inquiry, we may learn the facts, in the meantime let us trust the perpetrator of this fiendish crime may be brought to speedy justice.

Murder at Siegfried's Bridge.

Last Monday evening a most distressing affair occurred in the little village of Newport, on the canal, a short distance this side of Siegfried's Bridge, and only about six miles above this city, by which a man named Smith, a resident of that place, lost his life. The circumstances attending the transaction were most melancholy, afford another striking instance of the evil effects of the use and abuse of intoxicating liquors. It appears a dance, or "frolic," as most generally called, came off in the village tavern, and that among those in attendance was Smith, and that between him and a man named Cunningham a bitter quarrel sprang up. One word borrowed another, until Smith's temper, heated by stimulants, and the severe epithets which his adversary heaped upon him, caused him to enter into a fist encounter with him, during which Cunningham drew a dirk and plunged it into the abdomen of his antagonist, so that the blood from the wounds spirted over his hands, face and clothes. Several stabs were inflicted in the groin and side. The man fell to the floor, groaned terribly, and soon after died, though not until after Dr. Becker, of Whitehall Station, had been called to see him, who however at once pronounced the wounds as being necessarily of a fatal character. Smith was a man of family, and it is said Cunningham, who is a boatman, formerly boarded with him. The latter was taken in custody immediately after the occurrence, and yesterday morning committed to prison at Easton—the locality of the murder being in Northampton.—Allentown Democrat, Wednesday.

Obituary.

Died, in this borough, at 15 minutes past 8 o'clock, on Tuesday morning, May 20th, 1874, of consumption, Rev. CHRISTIAN KESSLER, aged 38 years, 6 months and 13 days.

Mr. Kessler, was born in Switzerland, on the 13th day of November, 1845; but was brought by his parents to this country while still an infant; he received his A. B. at Mercersburg College, Franklin county, Pa., in 1871; graduated at the Theological Seminary, Lancaster, in 1872, and took charge of the Lehighton Academy, in the spring of 1873; he was immediately elected Principal and Borough Superintendent of our Public Schools by the School Board, and Pastor of the Zion's Reformed Congregation of this borough. The duties of which positions he faithfully filled until the fall of 1873, when feeling his health giving way, he, on recommendation of his friends, sought a milder climate, and passed the winter months in Southern California, whence he returned but a few weeks ago, and died, as above stated, in the midst of his family and friends. He leaves a young wife and one infant babe to mourn his early death, besides numerous friends in this vicinity who loved and esteemed him for honest truth and christian bearing. His funeral took place on Friday morning, the services being held in the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church; the body being then conveyed to the depot of the L. V. R. R., and taken to Reading, accompanied by a number of relatives and friends; his remains were deposited in the Charles Evans Cemetery of that city.

MERCHANT TAILORING.

When in the course of wear and tear of every day life it becomes necessary to dissolve our connection with the suits that have done us so much services in keeping us warm and free from exposure, there is one place where we can find consolation and a friend indeed in our distress. Yes, a place where we can safely put our trust—where there is no need of fear that we shall be cheated, unsuited or unsatisfied—where the fabric is strong and the manufacture superb—where the prices are just and the style all that can be desired. There is a charm about an easy, glove-fitting, elastic suit, that is seen and observed by all men. "Where did you get that superb suit of clothes?" "Where did you secure such a splendid fitting garment?" is often asked. There are many tailors, and a number of them are undoubtedly fair samples of the genus homo and also a credit to the craft; but how generally tailors fail in the fitting of garments to the human form; how often a good piece of goods is spoiled in the fit; how sadly and dejectedly many a man wanders about the streets, feeling the shame of the tailor has caused him, in allowing a poor job to go out of his shop, and he the wearer of it! Perhaps his lady love has even jilted him in consequence of his forlorn appearance. "—Dress makes the man; The want of it the fellow!" Not that a man is less a man for wearing plain clothes, but when he is "dressed up" he should indeed be dressed not having his cloths hang like bags around him, and wrinkled and distorted in all sorts of shapes, but that he should be clothed in fitting garments. Taste should be shown both in the colors and make-up of his suit. Many high priced goods are at such outlandish colors and styles that a man's character is judged by his foolishly selecting those odd goods. A man is known by the company he keeps, and if he insists upon fraternizing with ill-looking and ill-fitting clothes, he will not make his "mark," as a man of taste, that's positive. To be looked upon as possessing the requisite attainments of a tasteful gentleman, he must select cloths of suitable colors for his clothing and have them made up in first class style by Laury & Peters, (post office building), Lehighton, Pa., who have a splendid stock to select from, and where you will obtain that symmetry of fit so necessary to the adornment of the person. Call and examine the most beautiful assortment of cloths, cassimers and vestings, ever brought into Lehighton, and leave your measure with Laury & Peters. March 14, 1874.
